Is your business protected?

When a customer files for bankruptcy, it can have a crippling effect on your business, especially if they owed you money at the time they became insolvent.

With bankruptcies set to rise, are you safeguarding your business from potential financial losses?

You can protect your accounts receivable against non-payment – arising from a customer’s bankruptcy or virtually any other credit risk – with a trade credit insurance policy.

Key Features of Credit Insurance

Increase sales:

Businesses can prioritize sales without concerns about receivables turning into uncollectible debts.

Save money: Credit insurance costs <1% of a company's insurable sales.

Save time: File a claim with an insurer vs engaging legal counsel and dealing with bankruptcy proceedings.
